STOP. VERIFY. PROTECT.

Fraudsters are becoming increasingly sophisticated.They may call, text, or email pretending to be your financial institution, government agency, or a trusted company.

Remember:

- Never share your online banking password
- Never provide one-time verification or security codes
- Be cautious of unexpected requests for personal or banking information
- Don't let anyone pressure you into acting immediately
- Verify requests using a trusted phone number or website (one you know is legitimate, such as the number on the back of your card or the company's official website)

Common Fraud Warning Signs:

- ☑ Urgent requests to move money or send an e-Transfer
- ☑ Requests to purchase gift cards or cryptocurrency
- ☑ Threats, pressure, or demands for immediate action
- ☑ Calls claiming your account has been compromised and asking for MemberCard/Debit Card password and/or security codes

If Something Doesn't Feel Right, Pause.

Hang up, verify the request, and contact us directly before taking any action.
